

Middleware360 Collaborates with Red Hat To Support System Integration Strategies

Collaboration combines integration solutions and technology into one offering

VANCOUVER, British Columbia – October 17, 2014 – Middleware360 Solutions, experts in system integration, and custom application development solutions, today announced a collaboration with Red Hat, the world's leading provider of open source solutions, to support an ongoing integration strategy with a focus on Red Hat JBoss Middleware.

Offering end-to-end IT services, Middleware360 helps clients streamline business processes, increase business flexibility, and decrease IT system complexity. "Collaborating with Red Hat gives us a competitive advantage when delivering solutions to our clients. With Red Hat JBoss Middleware, we are capable of innovating quickly yet remaining flexible to try different approaches to solve our client's challenges," said Derek Marley, CEO for Middleware360 Solutions.

Middleware360 has been extensively involved in and contributed to the open source community for almost a decade, having much success with developing middleware strategies for high profile clients. Red Hat sponsors a large number of vital open source projects. From these projects, Red Hat delivers Red Hat JBoss Middleware products, which includes rigorous testing, certification, and maintenance necessary for enterprise production use.

"We welcome Middleware360 to the Red Hat Partner Program and look forward to working with them to promote adoption of our open source solutions," said Jason Smith, vice president, North America Consulting, Red Hat. "Their expertise in delivering end-to-end system integration solutions and custom application development makes them a natural fit for our technology partnership program."

"What attracted us to collaborate with Red Hat was their innovative approach to supporting the open source community, in addition to mitigating risks to IT organizations by offering enterprise-level support for our clients", said Marley. "Red Hat gives us the ability to leverage the latest technology in a flexible, supported environment so we can quickly deliver future-forward solutions. We look forward to working closely with them for many years to come."
